Adding a backup FortiGate unit to improve reliability

Adding a backup FortiGate unit to a currently installed FortiGate unit provides redundancy if the primary FortiGate unit fails. This system design is known as High Availability (HA) and is intended to improve network reliability.

- 1. Adding the backup FortiGate unit and configuring HA
- 2. Testing the failover functionality
- 3. Upgrading the firmware for the HA cluster

